Baseball News.

Stony Plain's nine played a team of ten from the Canadian Nationals on the local grounds Saturday. The visitors are supposed to be good players, but the very best operator on its team Saturday was the hand-picked umpire, Mr. McConkey, who, incidentally, is the visiting team's manager when not otherwise engaged. Any spectator at the game who, thinks the Ump. gave his team the worst of it should consult an optician. The local team was leading in the third inning by one run when the Ump. received instructions to "get busy." Several new regulations not in "Spaldings" were enforced, and the localites soon realized that, to win, they had to beat the Ump. as well as his other nine associates. Herman Loeblich pitched a very good game for the first six innings. Of course, suggestions have been made Stony needs a few nifty fielders and a good man on first.

Stony's ball team went to Wabamun on the 15th, as per schedule. The team was composed of Loeblich 1b, Laird 2b, Dr. Oatway 3b, Moyer lf, J. Hy Miller cf, Wood rf, Hy Miller ss, McCulla p, Geo Graden c. Both teams had quite a procession around the bases, as the score 17-15 shows. Some thought that Stony players were trying to give the game away—but couldn't. As Wabamun has not made a win yet this season, it will be some time before another opportunity presents itself to get in the winning column.

Stony's ball team went to Duffield on the 19th, played the team there, and ran away with the game, the score being 21 to 1. Batteries—Stony, Simmons p, George Graden c; Duffield, Mohr, Dodge and Coombes; Brass c. G. Zucht, umpire.

Young Man Killed by Horse.

On Thursday last, a young man, Mr. Peter Armbruster, was found dead on the farm of Mr. Hy Goerz, 3 miles from town. Apparently, he had been attempting to bring a horse thru a gate from the pasture and had become entangled in the horse's halter, as part of the rope was wound round his waist when found, some 100 yards inside the gate, to where he had been dragged. The body was found by Elsie Goerz, a young daughter of the owner of the farm. Deceased was in his 18th year having come to this country 2 years ago and had been a student at Concordia College up to vacation time, which he intended spending on the Goerz farm. Coroner Oatway was communicated with, and an investigation was made. An inquest was not considered necessary. Burial took place from the residence of Mr. Goerz on Saturday, to St. Matthew's cemetery.

General regret is felt at the demise of this estimable young man, who was highly esteemed by a large circle of friends and acquaintances.

Our Harvest Help

Every year Western Canada is confronted with the task of securing an adequate supply of men to harvest and thresh the large and increasing grain crop grown throughout the prairie country. It is a problem of some magnitude and one that calls for careful organization, great foresight and wise management on the part of those entrusted with the work. This year has been no exception to the rule; in fact, prospects of one of the heaviest crops in the history of the country only served to intensify the problem and add to the vital importance of satisfactorily solving it.

Plans for the securing of tens of thousands of harvest hands have to be made weeks before the actual work of cutting the grain begins. Those plans, both as to the number of men likely to be required and the dates upon which they should be available to go into the field, must be made on the basis of estimates which may later be completely upset as a result of weather conditions. What from all appearances indicates a bumper crop in late June or early July may be radically altered through intense heat, or a prolonged spell of wet weather, or severe hail storms, or various pests and blights, until only an average, or less than average, crop results. An anticipated early harvest may be considerably delayed with the result that men are on hand before the farmers are ready to engage them, or conditions may hurry the crop onward to a rapid ripening and a clamor go up for men before they are available in sufficient numbers.

This year, with prospects in late June and early July of the heaviest grain yield in the history of the West, with a general consensus of opinion that the Western wheat crop would approach closely to the 500,000,000 bushels mark, and with estimated requirements of approximately 60,000 harvest hands, steps were taken by Government departments and transportation companies to meet the need. As a result arrangements were made to bring men not only from the other Provinces of Canada and the United States, but from the British Isles and the West Indies, and men are on hand before the harvest is brought across the Atlantic to help in the harvest. In addition to tens of thousands from Eastern Canada and British Columbia and hundreds from the United States.

Many of these men are prepared to remain as permanent settlers if they are pleased with their treatment here and find conditions are promising for their future success. Inasmuch as Canada requires additional population as one of the chief essentials of its continued growth, development and prosperity, it is of the utmost importance that everything possible be done to retain the maximum number of these men.

Governments and transportation companies having done their part, it now remains for the individual farmer to do his. Undoubtedly the vast majority of farmers treat their temporary help fairly and decently, and, while expecting and requiring of them hard work and long hours, see to it that they are comfortably housed, well fed, treated with reasonable consideration and paid promptly and adequately for services rendered. But in past years there have been numerous complaints, nevertheless, that conditions under which harvest hands have been obliged to work, and the business relations existing between farmer and employee, have not been all that they ought to have been and certainly not conducive to creating a favorable impression among these strangers in our midst.

Western farmers have everything to gain and nothing to lose by according the very best treatment possible to their harvest help. The letters which these men write to their old homes, and the impressions they take back, will constitute either the very finest or the very worst advertisement for this country. The opinions of these men will either enormously help immigration, or will hurt it. Their reports on the country and their treatment here will either make the ever recurring task of obtaining an adequate supply of harvest help when needed easier as the years pass or increasingly difficult. And the more difficult that task, the more the farmer will be made to pay.

It must be remembered that the expense to these men in coming long distances for only a few months' work is fairly heavy and they are entitled, under the circumstances, to good wages. If adequate wages are not forthcoming, these men have nothing to say for their labor and the expense to which they have gone, and not only will they not repeat the experiment, but they will discourage others.

This is not to say that these harvesters are justified in demanding extortionate wages, nor in adopting any hold-up policy. There is a limit which a farmer can pay for his harvest help, and in view of the present economic condition of Western agriculture, that limit is not a high one, and to exceed it means ruin for the farmer.

The point of this article, however, is that quite apart from the question of wages, the individual farmer can do much to make his hired help satisfied, and a friend and booster for Western Canada instead of a critic and knacker. Many of these young men come from good and comfortable homes and they resent being treated as riff-raff and bums out of work looking for an easy job.

There is good and bad among them, but with the majority Western Canada is on trial. Therefore, treat them white.

owned. The Canadian people gain from their "forest" possessions the substantial annual revenue of $500,000,000 representing the production of all branches of their forest industries. More than 100,000 men are engaged in Canada converting forest products into wealth in some form or other. Nearly 40,000 other people depend on this "forest army" for their food and shelter. In the pulp and paper mills are 32,000 men, drawing $40,000,000 a year in wages. The lumber industry pays $5,000,000 to $6,000,000 wages annually.

Fruits Grow Well

Industry Is Growing On Southern Alberta Irrigated Lands

Displays at the Lethbridge fair this year have established the fact that tree fruits can be grown successfully in certain districts of Alberta. Irrigation farmers in the south had displays of cherries, plums and small fruits, as well as of tobacco. All of these were grown on irrigated lands. One interesting exhibit was that of the United Farmers of Alberta, at Vauxhall, which showed fifty different soil products. Fruit growing has been taken up in several parts of both Southern and Northern Alberta with considerable success, and this industry is taking on larger proportions each year.

SYMPTOMS OF ANAEMIA

An Inherited Tendency to Anaemia May be Overcome

Some people have a tendency to become thin-blooded. Just as others have an inherited tendency to rheumatism, or to nervous disorders. The condition in which the blood becomes so thin that the whole body suffers comes on so gradually and stealthily that anyone with a natural disposition in that direction should watch the symptoms carefully. Bloodlessness, or anaemia, as the medical term is, can be corrected much more easily in the earlier stages than later. It begins with a tired feeling that rest does not overcome, the complexion becomes pale, and breathlessness on slight exertion, such as going up stairs, is noticed.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a home remedy that has been most successful in the treatment of diseases caused by thin blood. With pure red and wholesome food these blood-making pills afford the correct treatment when the symptoms described are noticed. You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail, postpaid, at 50c a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Farmers Moving to St. Walburg

Leave Drought Area in Southern Saskatchewan to Farm in North

A number of farmers in the dried out section of Saskatchewan, southwest of Swift Current, have moved away and settled in the St. Walburg district at the end of the steel on the C.N.R. northwest of Battleford, according to John Balfour, who returned to Regina from a business trip in that section of the province.

Mr. Balfour said that settlers in this far-flung district appear to be making good. Being a bush country, he said, the district calls for a different type of farming to the open prairie, but many of the settlers, while clearing their land, are making a stake for themselves by such aids as fishing and trapping.

During last winter, fish valued at $50,000 were shipped out from St. Walburg, and the fur pelts consigned from the same point were worth approximately $75,000. "Of course," he said, "the shippers were not all farmer settlers, some of the products being shipped out by those making a living as fishermen or trappers. The farmers, however, are doing a certain amount of fishing and hunting, and game and fish, together with an occasional deer, help them to tide through the winter."

Practically every farmer in the district has one or two milk cows, according to Mr. Balfour, though the dairy industry has fallen off somewhat during the last year or two on account of lower prices for dairy produce. Most of the settlers are clearing their land by fire and the amount of land on each farm under cultivation is comparatively small at the present time.

Returned Soldiers' Insurance

All Members of Canadian Expeditionary Force Are Eligible

The Returned Soldiers' Insurance Act has a provision that applications for either new or increased insurance will not be accepted after September 1st, 1922. It therefore behooves every ex-serviceman who is desirous of taking out this insurance to immediately get in touch with any office of the Department of Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment or by writing to the Commissioners, Returned Soldiers' Insurance, 2454 Bessie, Regina, Ont., where the necessary application forms may be obtained.

All members of the Canadian Expeditionary Force, whether they went overseas or not are eligible for insurance. There is no medical examination necessary as is the case with private companies. The rates are extremely low and the premiums may be paid in monthly instalments, and in the case of pensioners their first premium must be paid in cash, but should they so desire subsequent premiums may be paid by deductions from the monthly pension checks.

The amount of the smallest policy is $500 and are issued in denominations of $500 up to a maximum of $5,000. As an illustration of a way in which the Returned Soldiers' Insurance plan works out for an ex-serviceman now 30 years of age who takes out a $5,000 policy on the 25-year payment plan, the cost of this policy to him in premiums is $3.80 monthly, at his death his beneficiary will receive $1,000 in a lump sum and the balance will be paid over in 5, 10, 15 or 20 years, whichever period insured desires.

Any further particulars required regarding this insurance will gladly be furnished on application to either of the offices of the Department of Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment in this province which are situated at the Veterans Block, Regina, Sask., and the Sub-Unit Office, 510 Canada Building, Saskatoon, Sask.

The production of arsenic in Canada in 1922 amounted to 2,575 tons, valued at $321,087, which was an increase of 73 per cent. in quantity, but only 37 per cent. in value over the production of 1921. Approximately four-fifths of this was produced in the smelting of the silver-cobalt-nickel ores of Northern Ontario.

Agricultural Opportunities Of Western Canada Are In Sound Position As Ever

(By G. H. Hutton, Supt. Agriculture and Animal Industry, Canadian Pacific Railway, Calgary, Alberta.)

Considerable pessimism appears to exist in some quarters as to the future of agriculture and as to business prospects in general in the west.

Extreme pessimism is a disease, and a review of the opportunities afforded in agriculture in the west may serve as a needed tonic to farmers and to business men alike. To the farmer who may feel downhearted, in that a review of the situation must provide many illustrations of those who have been depressed and weighed down by circumstances similar to those which face him, yet who have won through; to the business man, a study of the present situation must prove of value in again indicating how wonderful are the possibilities of the west in agriculture, and how closely related is success in that department of our national end-avor with success in business.

I should like to consider the subject of agricultural opportunities, having in mind what has been accomplished and considering also what may be done to multiply the number of successful farmers. First let us set out a correct standard or definition of success. The standard of success which was held up to the farming kettler, for years was that the west offered the opportunity to accumulate wealth quickly and to retire after a few years to spend the balance of life in some other business or in idleness.

I submit that the man on the farm may be considered a success who, during the course of his active life, is in a position to enjoy home comforts, has time to devote to the duties of citizenship, time for reading, money to educate his children, is able to lay aside a competence for his old age, and yet leave his farm to the next generation in as good condition as he found it. I realize that many of those who have not succeeded on farms in the west have failed through no serious fault of their own, but through being over-ambitious, or, in many cases, through having responded during war years to the appeal for greater production. The farmer who extended his operations rapidly during these years and who made investments in livestock and equipment has been faced by such a rapid depreciation in values as to test his financial strength to the limit, and even beyond.

I do not overlook the fact that a readjustment of the prices of farm products upward to a point in correspondence with the costs of production is necessary, or a reduction of such costs of production to a point corresponding with the values of the products of the farm. Prices of farm products must go up or costs must go down. It is not a matter of vital importance whether the products of the farm be high or low in price if they correspond in value with the things which the farmer has to buy.

There has been some improvement toward correlating these values, but that movement has not proceeded as far or as rapidly as it should. I wish to point out, however, that even during the last few years when the spread between the value of farm products and the value of the things the farmer buys has been greatest, even during the years when the need for readjustment has been greatest, we have a considerable percentage of farmers in Western Canada who have been making good. The man who has been operating a farm within his own capacity to handle, largely in so far as labor is concerned, and who did not expand his purchases during the period of high prices for land and livestock beyond his ability to pay cash in a sound financial position today.

I feel sure that everyone who has studied the situation will agree that the west is economically sound, and that a great future lies ahead.

In conclusion, let me say that I believe that the fertility of our soil, the invigorating climate which we enjoy and the energy of our people will enable us to produce high quality products in competition with any nation in the world.

The opportunity lies at our door for reducing the costs of production of our products, the improvement of the quality of these products and the en-

Suggests a Limit On Air Armament

British Expert Says Question Should Be Considered Seriously

Major-General Sir Frederick Maurice, who was Chief of Military Operations for Great Britain during the war, declares in an article on the increase in the air forces of France and Britain that "it is high time the question of limitation of armaments is taken up seriously." He says that the British Government's recent decision to nearly double England's present air equipment meant a return to competition in armaments and that such competition is not likely to lead to improved relations between the two countries.

General Maurice emphasizes Great Britain's willingness to enter into a conference on the reduction of all armaments similar to the Washington conference on naval armaments. But for the present, he says, Britain must, out of self-protection, bring her air strength up to that of France.

"France," says he, "is the only country which within the next ten years is likely to be able to consider seriously an attack upon England from the air. Today we are not in the most remote danger of invasion which comes by sea. Therefore, for the first time for centuries, the navy has ceased to be our first line of home defense, and that role has devolved upon the air force."

Business of Cordage Co. Growing

The Canada Western Cordage Company, of New Westminster, started in 1920, has developed into a most thriving industry. Last month was the biggest month in the history of the company, 225,000 pounds of rope having been shipped. The production was four times that of the corresponding month last year.

On the average every man, woman and child in Great Britain pays a little more than $100 a year in taxation.

Great Britain Chooses Wonderful Harbor For Building Naval Base

The recent announcement of the First Lord of the Admiralty that the Imperial Government has decided to build a naval base on the island of Singapore has directed public attention toward that wonderful harbor, where miles of smooth water, protected by islands, lead up to the sheltered roadstead in which countless ships can lie untroubled by the storms and squalls which vex the tropical seas.

Round the harbor, writes the Singapore correspondent of the Times, chosen deliberately by the genius of Stamford Raffles a hundred years ago, there has grown up a great and fascinating city. It is the greatest trading centre of Middle Asia, and to it come innumerable native junks and sampans, bringing the tin and rubber of Malaya and all the varied produce of the archipelago. There come also the larger ships down from the China seas, with the silk, fruit, pottery and rice of the Middle Kingdom, manufactured goods of Japan, and the vessels bringing meat and wool from Australia. This traffic has justified the wisdom of Stamford Raffles in insisting that Singapore should be a free port.

It is a wonderful sight to see the steamers surrounded by lighters and sampans crowded together a few hundred yards from the big wharves and great banking houses, and the ceaseless traffic to and from loading and unloading freight. One feels, as at every step one takes in Singapore, the curious combination of East and West. Here human labor is abundant, the overflow of overcrowded China. Boatmen, half naked, stand urging forward with absurdly long oars their craft, on the bows of which are pointed large eyes that they may see their way. The heavy labor of these boats of coolies goes on alongside the most modern marine machinery, just as the rickshaws and bullock carts share the crowded streets with Ford cars and the latest Rolls-Royce.

In the evening when the great heat over one can watch the scene from the edge of the Padang, the great grass space running from the Cathedral and the main hotels to the edge of the sea wall. Behind one is a dense crowd of Asiatics, and a small but dominant proportion of white clad Europeans may be watching an exciting football match. The teams may be European, Malay, Chinese, Eurasian or mixed, and may speak any language from Portuguese to Tamil. The final of the Association Football League of the Singapore volunteers was played here between the Chinese and Eurasian volunteer companies teams, just won by the former after an exciting match, enthusiastically and critically followed by a great crowd of all peoples and languages, all imbued with a thoroughly sporting spirit.

Here we are all immigrants to gether. A hundred years ago the island was practically uninhabited. No one has the sense of oppressed nationality; so a new Malayan nationality may grow up, as an American one has grown up in the United States, blinding all the immigrants together and molded by the highest tradition of the Commonwealth of British nations, of which it should be no mean part. When one watches the football matches one feels very hopeful about it!

Our vision, without moving the eyes, covers an arc of about 220 degrees.

ASSEMBLING NEW EQUIPMENT TO CARRY 1923 CROP

Here are some of the engines and box cars, Canadian made for Canadian traffic, which arrived in Winnipeg this week to augment the rolling stock of the Canadian Pacific Railway. This equipment is now in readiness for the transporting of Western Canada's crop, which bids fair to be one of the largest ever recorded. These additional engines and cars were constructed at the company's shops at Angus, near Montreal, and have been assembled at the Weston shops, Winnipeg, awaiting the call to the harvest fields of the west.

The upper picture shows four trains leaving Weston with a string of approximately 100 box cars per engine. Each car has a capacity of 60 tons. (2) and (3) some of the new freight engines which will be used to haul the grain throughout the three prairie provinces. (4) One of the 55 new P-3 class engines. These engines have a total weight of 225 tons, exerting a traction effort of 55,000 pounds. Their driving wheels are 5 ft. 3 inches in diameter, cylinders 25 1/2 in. diameter by 32 in. stroke; the total length being 81 feet 4 1/2 inches. The tender has a water capacity of 8,000 gallons and 14 tons of coal, which is equal to the average citizen's winter supply of fuel. These engines are known as the P-3 class, numbered in 5,000 series. They have vestibule cabs for the comfort of the engine crew and are electrically equipped throughout. The complete weight of one train hauled by one of these engines, including the engine, is 4,476 tons, of which 3,020 tons would be the carrying capacity of wheel, or 100,000 bushels in each train. The carrying capacity of the 45 engines of this standard is 4,535,000 bushels per trip. Each engine makes one trip a day. Picture No. 5 shows an other group of the new locomotives. Their capacity and weight rank them among the biggest of their type in the world.

"No, Gordon, no! Oh, please, not that!" the girl pleaded.

"Sure, I'll back," Moran answered, a gleam of joy in his eyes. He glared in the tremendous strength of a body which had brought him victory in half a hundred barroom combats. He felt that no one lived, outside the prize-ring, who could beat him on an even footing.

"Take his gun away from him," Wade told Dorothy. "It's the second time you've disarmed him, but it's to be the last. He'll never carry a gun again. 'Take it!' he repeated, commandingly, and when she obeyed, added: 'Toss it on the bed.' He stood his rifle in a corner near the door.

"You're a fool, Wade," Moran taunted as they came together. "I'm going to kill you first and then I'll take my will of her." But nothing he could say could add to Wade's fury, already at its coldest, most deadly point.

He answered by a jab at the big man's mouth, which Moran cleverly ducked; for so heavy a man, he was wonderfully quick on his feet. He ducked and parried three other such vicious leads, by a clever feint. Wade drew an opening and succeeded in landing his right fist, hard at the jaw of stones, full in the pit of his adversary's stomach. It was an awful blow, one that would have killed a smaller man; but Moran merely grunted and broke ground for an instant. Then he landed a swinging left on the side of Wade's head which opened a cut over his ear and nearly felled him.

Back and forth across the little room they fought with little advantage either way, while Dorothy watched them breathlessly. Like gladiators they circled each other, coming to gether at intervals with the shock of two enraged bulls. Both were soon bleeding from small cuts on the head and face, but neither was aware of the fact. Occasionally they collided with articles of furniture, which were overturned and swept aside almost unnoticed; while Dorothy was forced to step quickly from one point to another to keep clear of them. Several times Wade told her to leave the room, but she would not go.

Finally the ranchman's superior condition began to tell in his favor. At the end of ten minutes' fighting the agent's breathing became labored and his movements slower. Wade, still darting about quickly and lightly had no longer much difficulty in punishing the brutal, leering face before him. Time after time he drove his fists mercilessly into Moran's features until they lost the appearance of anything human and began to resemble raw meat.

But suddenly, in attempting to side step one of his opponent's bull-like rushes, the cattleman slipped in a puddle of blood and half fell, and before he could regain his footing Moran had seized him. Then Wade learned how the big man's reputation for tremendous strength had been won. Cruelly, implacably, those great ape-like arms entwined about the ranchman's body until the very breath was crushed out of it. Resorting to a trick he knew, he strove desperately to free himself, but all the strength in his own muscular body was powerless to break the other's hold. With a crash that shook the house to its foundation, they fell to the floor, and by a lucky twist Wade managed to fall on top.

The force of the fall had shaken Moran somewhat, and the cattleman, by calling on the whole of his strength, succeeded in tearing his arms free. Plunging his fingers into the thick, mottled throat, he quizzed steadily until Moran's struggles grew weaker and weaker. Finally they ceased entirely and the huge, heavy body lay still.

Wade stumbled to his feet and staggered across the room. "It's all right," he said thickly, and added at sight of Dorothy's wide, terror-stricken eyes: "Frightened you didn't see? Guess I should have shot him and made a clean job of it; but I couldn't somehow."

"Oh, he's hurt you terribly!" the girl cried, bursting into fresh tears. Wade laughed and tenderly put his arms around her, for weak though he was and with nerves twitching like those of a recently sobered drunkard, he was not too weak or sick to enjoy the privilege of soothing her. The feel of her in his arms was wonderful happiness to him and her tears for him seemed far more precious.

than all the gold on his land. He had just lifted her up on the sill of the open window, thinking that the fresh air might steady her, when she looked over his shoulder and saw Moran, who had regained consciousness, in the act of reaching for his revolver, which lay on the bed where she had tossed it.

"Oh, see what's he's doing! Look out!" Her cry of warning came just too late. There was a flash and roar, and a hot flame seemed to pass through Wade's body. Half turning about, he clutched at the air, and then pitched forward to the floor, where he lay still. Flourishing the gun, Moran got unsteadily to his feet and turned a ghastly, dappled visage to the girl, who, stunned and helpless, was gazing at him in wide-eyed horror. But she had nothing more to fear from him, for now that he realized Wade dead, the agent was too overshadowed by his crime to think of perpetrating another and worse one. He had already wasted too much valuable time. He must get away.

"I got him," he croaked, in a terrible voice. "I got him like I said I would, damn him!" With a blood-curdling attempt at a laugh, he staggered out of the house into the sunshine.

For a moment Dorothy stared woefully through the empty doorway; then, with a choking sob, she bent over the man at her feet. She shook him gently and begged him to speak to her, but she could get no response and under her exploring fingers his heart apparently had ceased to beat. For a few seconds she stared at the widening patch of red on his torn shirt; then her gaze shifted and focused on the rifle in the corner by the door. As she looked at the weapon her wide, fear-struck eyes narrowed and hardened with a sudden resolve. Seizing the gun, she cocked it and stepped into the doorway.

Moran was walking unsteadily toward the place where he had tied his horse. He was tucking from side to side like a drunken man, waving his arms about and talking to himself. Bringing the rifle to her shoulder, Dorothy steadied herself against the door-frame and took long, careful aim. As she sighted the weapon her usually pretty face, now scratched and streaked with blood from her struggles with the agent, wore the expression of one who has seen all that is dear in life slip away from her. At the sharp crack of the rifle Moran stopped short and a convulsive shudder racked his big body from head to foot. After a single step forward he crumpled up on the ground. For several moments his arms and legs twitched spasmodically, then he lay still.

Horried by what she had done, now that it was accomplished, Dorothy stepped to the door and looked out and stood the rifle in its former position near the door, when a low moan came from the room. She stepped back and saw that Moran was still alive. Wade was not dead then! She hastily tore his shirt from over the wound, her eyes widening as she saw the piteous, bleeding wound. To her tender gaze, the hurt seemed a frightful one. She tried to soothe him, to regain consciousness and find himself alone, she decided to remain with him, instead of going to help him as she craved; most likely she would be unable to find her mother and Barker, anyway. She stopped the flow of blood as best she could and put a pillow under the ranchman's head, kissing him afterward. Then for an interval she sat down. She never knew for how long. Santry reached the house just as Mrs. Purnell and Barker returned with their berries and the found the girl bathing the wounded man's face, and crying over him.

"Boy, boy!" Santry sobbed, dropping on his knees before the unconscious figure. "Who done this to you?" Dorothy weepingly explained, and when she told of her own part in shooting Moran the old fellow patted her approvingly on the back. "Good girl," he said hoarsely. "But I wish that job had been left for me."

"Merciful Heavens!" cried Mrs. Purnell. "I shall never get over this." With trembling hands she took the basin and towel from her daughter and set them one side, then she gently urged the girl to her feet.

"You!" said Santry, so ferociously to Barker that the man winced in spite of himself. "Help me to lay him on the bed, so's to do it gentle-like." Dorothy, who felt certain that Wade was mortally hurt, struggled desperately against the feeling of faintness which was creeping over her. She caught at a chair for support, and her mother caught her in her arms.

"My poor dear, you're worn out. Go lie down. Oh, when I think..." "Don't talk to me, mother!" Dorothy waved her back, for the presence close to her of another person could only mean her collapse. "I'm all right. I'm of no consequence now. He needs a doctor!" she added, turning to Santry, who stood near the bed bowed with grief. He, too, thought that Wade would never be himself again.

"I'll go," said Barker, eager to do something to atone for his absence at the critical moment, but Santry touched upon him in a rage.

"You-you skunk!" he snarled, and gestured fiercely toward the bed. "He left you here to look after things and you—you went berry pickin'!" Barker seemed so crushed by the tears in the old man's words that Dorothy's sympathy was stirred.

"I wasn't Barker's fault," she said quickly. "There seemed to be no danger. Gordon said so himself. But one of you go, immediately, for the doctor."

"I'll go," Santry responded and hurried from the room, followed by Barker, thoroughly wretched.

Dorothy went to the bedside and looked down into Wade's white face; then she knelt there on the floor and said a little prayer to the God of all men to be merciful to her.

"Maybe if I made you a cup of tea?" Mrs. Purnell anxiously suggested, but the girl shook her head listlessly. Ten was the elder woman's paces for all she cared.

"Don't bother me, mother, please. I—'ve just been through a good deal. I can't talk—really, I can't."

Mrs. Purnell, subsiding, and Dorothy, thereafter held her peace, and Dorothy sat down by the bed to be instantly ready to do anything that could be done. She had sat thus, almost without stirring, for nearly an hour, when Wade moved slightly and opened his eyes.

"What is it?" She bent over him instantly, forgetting everything except that he was awake and that he seemed to know her.

"Is it you, Dorothy?" He groped weakly for her hand.

"Yes, dear," he answered, "gaining back the sob in her throat. 'Is there anything you want? What can I do for you?'"

He smiled feebly and shook his head.

"It's all right, if it's you," he said.

"I expect that's all right," sighed the farmer dolefully, "but honest, mister, I'm going to have a deuce of a time with them bees."

General Smuts Urges European Nations To Support Great Britain

Bloomfontein, South Africa.—An appeal to South Africa to stand in sympathy with Great Britain in her effort to save Europe from destruction, was made by Premier Smuts in an address to the South African party congress here. The Premier was given an ovation upon his first public appearance after his recent indisposition.

The Premier exhorted all the nations in Europe, great and small, to rally round Britain and avert a world-wide disaster. The position today was grave beyond words, the Premier said, and if the United States saw the European nations supporting Great Britain, he had faith that the United States would again rush to the rescue, and save the breakup of Europe, the consequences of which might not be wiped out for a century.

If all the nations acted together, Premier Smuts continued, there was still a possibility that France would see her danger before it was too late. The dissolution of Germany would be a far more serious thing than the fall of Russia. If Germany broke up, civilization would be put back a century or more. When Europe could stand the shock it would be difficult to say, as there was even a prospect of a breakup of the whole world.

"South Africa," declared Premier Smuts, "cannot cut itself off from Europe because she is a small outpost with dangerous surroundings—a small outpost in a black continent—and if Europe went under we could not foresee the consequences and could not dissociate ourselves from Europe and her sisters."

Regulated Migration Is Veterans' Policy

Would Tend to Build Up British Race Within Empire

Ottawa.—Official reports of the biennial conference of the British Empire Service League in London last month have just been received by the Dominion Command, Great War Veterans' Association, which is the constituent organization of the league for Canada.

The outstanding decision was that dealing with the question of Empire migration. A resolution approved the principle of regulated immigration for land settlement within the Empire was adopted. The opinion was expressed that suitable schemes would materially assist in the establishment of industry and tend towards the solution of the unemployment problem, combined with the building up of the British race within the confines of the Empire. The league was pledged to assist regulated schemes in every way possible. The view of the league will be presented to the Imperial Conference in London this September.

Fears Economic War With Britain

France Convinced Campaign Against Franc Exists in London

Paris.—Suggestions of an economic war between France and Great Britain are met with frequently in current conversations with leading French business men engaged in trade with Great Britain and now are creeping into the press.

Large importers of wools from Great Britain express the view that business between the two countries will necessarily decline on account of the extraordinary rise in the pound sterling, and that no organized move was required to bring that result about as it was the inevitable outcome of what is declared here to be the London campaign for the depreciation of the franc.

The Matin has asked Premier Baldwin if he is not aware that his policy toward France is tending to bring about a movement in which the watchword will be, "No business with England; no purchases in England."

The balance of trade which was favorable to France until 1914 was turned by France's war needs and since remained favorable to Great Britain. France, it is pointed out, could easily turn the balance to her favor by abstaining from purchases of British coal which she might get along without if the Ruhr production increased and measures for economy in heating and lighting were adopted. She could also largely reduce the unfavorable balance by adopting the policy of wearing French-made wools.

French business men appeared to be convinced that a campaign against the franc really exists in London, and that it was organized by bankers in sympathy with the British Government.

Hon. Jas. Murdock Is Given New Task

Will Administer New Act in Respect to Trusts

Ottawa.—Hon. James Murdock, Minister of Labor, has been charged with the general administration of the act which provides for the investigation of combines, monopolies, trusts and mergers. It has been announced by Premier King.

The act, which was passed during the last session of Parliament, confers wide powers upon the officials in charge of its administration. It provides that an investigation may be ordered upon a complaint supported by six persons, and for the appointment of a permanent registrar to conduct the preliminary probe.

Penalties which may be imposed where convictions are secured, take three forms. First, the responsible parties may be proceeded against under the Criminal Code, second, any tariff protection enjoyed by the concern may be withdrawn, and, third, proceedings may be taken before the antitrust court to cancel patent rights.

Cannot Build Highways

Regina.—Addressing the Kiwanis Club here, Hon. J. G. Gardiner, Minister of Highways, stated that lack of population in Saskatchewan prevented the building of more highways at present. For some time to come he declared, the question of providing better facilities for those settled on the land must be kept to the fore, and for that reason demands for the building of improved highways for the accommodation of tourists must be ignored.

Improvements For Ellis Island

Ready to Compete With Coal From U.S.

Alberta Coal Men Willing to Ship to Ontario Despite High Freight

Toronto.—Premier Ferguson was waited upon by a delegation of Alberta coal men, headed by Sir George Elmer, who declared they were prepared, during the coming fall and winter, to ship 100,000 tons of fuel here so as to compete successfully with United States coal, despite the high freight charges.

They asserted the coal would be positively of the first quality, comparing favorably with United States anthracite. They proposed to ship by rail to Fort William and by boat from there, thus effecting a substantial reduction in rail haulage charges. Sir George and his associates in the conference are interested in the Drumheller mining region. The announced object of their visit to Ontario is to endeavor to interest citizens here in the western mines as a source of their winter fuel requirements.

French Cruiser Launched

Is First of Three on New Naval Programme

Brest.—The new light cruiser Duquesne Trouin, of the French navy was launched here in the presence of Minister of Marine Roubert. Speaking at the ceremony the minister said that with 8,000 tons displacement she would develop 100,000 horsepower, and contrasted this with the pre-war battleships of 23,000 tons displacement and a maximum of only 30,000 horsepower. Her speed will be only 24 knots an hour.

She is the first of the three light cruisers forming the naval programme voted in April, 1922, to be completed. Work on the second was begun at L'Orient in January and the third will be built here.

Many Miners Lose Lives

Bodies Found Mile Underground After Wyoming Mine Explosion

Kemmerer, Wyoming.—Kemmerer is in mourning for the miners—97 of them—who are known to have lost their lives in the explosion at Kemmerer Coal Company Mine No. 1 at Frontier, near here. Throughout the day and night hundreds of relatives and friends thronged the I.O.O.F. hall, which has been turned into a temporary morgue, and also to a local undertaking establishment where half the bodies were being kept.

The latest official report is 87 miners dead, one missing and 37 rescued alive and unharmed.

The mine is considered one of the deepest in this section—if not in the United States. The main shaft goes down at an angle of 16 degrees to a depth of about 6,000 feet, and it was on the lower levels, or about one mile underground, that most of the bodies were found.

Judge Says Seizure Of Rum Ships Legal

Foreign Vessels Smuggling Liquor Into U.S. Can Be Taken Outside Limit

New York.—Seizure of alien rum-running vessels that hover outside the three-mile limit was held legal by Federal Judge Woodruff in a decision handed down in the case of the British ship, Marion Mosher, seized while transferring a liquor cargo to the United States owned motor-boat, J.I.D., eight miles off the coast near Fire Island, July 27, 1922.

Bonds of the Detroit Fidelity and Surety Company, given after the seizure of the craft as a guarantee that it would proceed to its supposed destination, St. John, N.B., were declared forfeited, it being contended that although the vessel arrived at the Canadian port, she did not have her cargo, thereby violating her agreement.

Judge Woodruff held that seizure of foreign ships engaged in smuggling liquor into the United States was justifiable even though they were on the high seas.

Merchant Marine May Be Utilized

Government Vessels Can Be Used to Carry Grain

Ottawa.—Ten vessels of the Canadian Merchant Marine now on the Great Lakes, may be used in the grain carrying trade this season, it was announced by Hon. Geo. P. Graham, Minister of Railways and Canals.

Use of the Government boats to assist in solving the problem presented by the refusal of American ship owners to comply with the new grain rate regulations has been under consideration. It is understood that Sir Henry Thornton will be called into consultation in the matter and should the American concerns persist in their refusal to file tariffs the Government vessels will be utilized.

Asked whether the Government boats were of that type which would lend themselves to use in the grain traffic, Mr. Graham replied that while not especially built for that purpose they could be satisfactorily employed to carry a portion of the western crop.

Ennis, Ireland.—Eamonn De Valera, "president of the Irish republic," at last is in the custody of the Free State authorities. He was arrested here as he was starting an election speech to his constituents. He had boldly announced his coming, and when he took his position on the rostrum of the market square, Free State troops threw a cordon about him.

The crowd that had gathered had given him a tumultuous reception and he had just started his address in Gaelic when a shout arose, "The soldiers are coming." Simultaneously armoured cars rattled up to the vicinity of the platform.

The crowd, made up of men and women, fled in all directions as the soldiers fired several volleys over their heads. Many of the women fainted.

As several soldiers rushed toward the platform, De Valera was seen to sway and then to collapse. At first it was thought the republican leader had been shot, but it turned out that he had only fainted, probably in consequence of a blow he received during the stampede.

When he recovered, De Valera was assisted down the steps from the platform by troops. He waved aside a number of persons who were seemingly desirous of rescuing him and surrendered to an officer, who received him with a kindly "come along."

When the first panic had subsided, the people who had been about the platform returned to the market square. Many of them hurried insulting epithets at the troops, and for a moment the situation looked ugly. The troops, however, took things calmly, fixed their bayonets and soon restored a degree of order. Then, with a large crowd following him, De Valera was taken to the county jail. He offered no resistance.

Palatial Canadian Pacific Liner To Go On Big Cruise

In the upper left-hand corner is shown the Canadian Pacific palatial liner Empress of Canada, which will make the cruise of the world this winter and early spring. Other scenes depicted are some of the features that will be shown the travellers as they sail the seven seas. The Sphinx is the majesty of the Pyramids at Giza.

Then comes Mount Fuji, the snow-capped mountain of Japan. Nestling under the spreading branch of the tree is a Ginkgo tree, and on her left is a willow tree known near Shanghai.

The famous cruise of the Canadian Pacific steamer Empress of Canada, posted for this coming winter, is attracting much attention not only in Canada but in the United States and Mexico. The big 21,500 ton liner is especially adapted to world cruising and having won the speed record of the Pacific, the company has chosen this boat to be the flagship of cruises for the winter months.

The circumnavigators on the Empress of Canada will return laden with the rich experience and mental treasures gathered from vision of eighteen different countries and contact with the customs, crafts and civilizations of fifty different races. It will be a tour to ports of a thousand romances, unfolding the pageant of the world from the cultured west to the barbaric splendour of the east. Shrines, mosques, temples, cathedrals, palaces, and the sacred treasures of the fabled Orient will be revealed to the gaze of these fortunate voyagers.

Leaving New York at a time when the inclement weather drives those who can afford to escape to more equable climates, the Empress of Canada is due to reach nine days later the balmy shores of Madeira, an Island of mountains thrown up as high as six thousand feet above the sea by volcanic action from the still untamed ocean bed.

TO VISIT WEST.

Gibraltar, reached on the morning of the twelfth day out, stands on guard like a rock-mantled policeman on an ocean trail. This famous fortress of the British Empire was originally planned after a Moorish island of the eighth century, whose castle still remains. Known to the ancients as one of the pillars of Hercules, it was formerly considered as the western extremity of the world.

Already from the Straits of Gibraltar the rugged purple and green and orange and blue of the Atlas mountains has cast the spell of Africa upon the voyager, and now at early morning of the fourteenth day the ship casts anchor in the harbor of Algiers, facing the ivory terraces and minarets of a still half-Arabian city.

Across the Mediterranean the ship now turns to Monaco, the high-speed steamer principally on the south-eastern coast of France, at which all the Puritan world shakes its finger. Within its tiny area more fortunes have been lost and won than lives have been squandered on the shores of the great lumber districts of the trip to London, the greatest rice port in the world, and also one of the great lumber districts of the fields of Europe. The tables at the Monte Carlo casino are forbidden to the twenty thousand local inhabitants who, however, have the consolation of being exempt from taxes.

Naples is the next port of call, the largest, busiest and most populous port in Italy. Here opportunity is given to see the chief points of interest in the city and to visit Pompeii. Port Said and then Cairo and while the boat proceeds to Suez the passengers will be given four days in the land of the Pharaohs.

BRITISH OUTPOSTS.

From there, the voyagers move on down the Red Sea, past Aden, another British outpost and on across the Indian ocean to one of the greatest ports in the world, Bombay. A stay of a week has been allowed for this port, and many trips/land have been arranged.

The gates of Senapur, with countless minarets in the distance, will offer splendid lure for visitors, and the lower right-hand picture is of Mount Carst, with the greatest canyons in the world.

THE next port of call will be in Japan, where all the leading ports will be visited and the Japanese Government is making preparations to demonstrate to the visitors that Japan is a friendly little nation.

From Japan the liner will go to Honolulu and on May 24 will terminate her cruise at Vancouver, the passengers going overland from here to the various destinations.

South of Asia, is also one of the largest. Singapore, the busy capital of the Malay states, is the next port of call and Britishers on the trip will be shown the foundation of the new naval base which is to be built there.

OVER EQUATOR.

Crossing the equator the Empress of Canada will then go to Batavia the capital of the Dutch East Indies. With her nose turned north the liner will steam for Manila, the capital of the Philippine Islands, and one of the greatest educational centres in the world. Money bays for schools are always passed in this insular settlement.

From Manila the travellers will be taken to Hong Kong, Canton, Macao and then to Shanghai, and special arrangements have been made to see China as China is.

SAVE THE CHILDREN

Mothers who keep a box of Baby's Own Tablets in the house feel that the lives of their little ones are reasonably safe during the hot weather. Stomach troubles, cholera infantum and diarrhoea, carry off thousands of little ones every summer, in most cases because the mother does not have a safe medicine at hand to give promptly. Baby's Own Tablets relieve these troubles, or for that matter, they can be given to the mother, to relieve her coming on. The Tablets are guaranteed to give instant relief to be absolutely harmless even to the newborn babe. They are especially good in summer because they regulate the bowels and keep the stomach sweet and pure. They are sold by medicine dealers, or for mail at 25c a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Origin of Ventriles

The word "ventrile" is from the Latin, meaning originally a place where the Romans left their vestments or overcoats.

THEY TELL THEIR NEIGHBORS

Women Tell Each Other How They Were Helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Woodbridge, Ont.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for male troubles. I would have headaches, backaches, pains between my shoulders and under my shoulder blades and dragging down feelings on each side. It was sometimes unable to do my work and felt very nervous. My mother-in-law told me about the Vegetable Compound and I got some right away. It has done me more good than Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I recommend it to my neighbors. You are quite welcome to use this letter as a testimonial if you think it will help some poor sufferer."—Mrs. EDGAR SIMMONS, R. R. 2, Woodbridge, Ont.

In nearly every neighborhood in every town and city in this country there are women who have been helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the treatment of ailments peculiar to their sex, and they are pleased in passing the good word along to other women. Therefore, if you are troubled in this way, why not give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial?

This famous remedy, the medicinal ingredients of which are derived from roots and herbs, has for forty years proved its value in such cases. Women everywhere bear willing testimony to the wonderful virtue of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Laborers in the Argentine

Indians From North Hard Workers But Poorly Paid

Labor recruiters penetrate to remote villages of Northern Argentine and with the promise of high wages induce Indians and their families to leave home. The laborers are transported on flat cars with accommodations worse than those provided for livestock. They are herded on estates under the open sky without sufficient food. They are hard workers, and their pay is practically nothing, their wages being in the form of orders, valid only at the plantation store, where they are charged exorbitant prices for the poorest quality of goods. If any balance is left at the end of the accounting, the workers are induced to spend it for liquors of which they are very fond. The national department of labor of Argentina is authority for this information.

Diseases and Commensals

Nature Provides Abundant Means to Keep Blood Pure

Slack, in trust interest of humanity, these columns, on April 14th, continued a letter of mine on cancer prevention, much suffering in many houses of the Great North-West has been either greatly relieved or banished entirely, and any expression of thanks from a grateful public to the author is a pleasure. The Pills will ever remain adequate.

Now it is generally known that cancer can be surely and effectively treated at home, inoperably, by the potassium treatment, and that this terrible disease can be avoided by the adoption of a rational natural diet, attention should be directed towards the source, namely, by which a suffering world can rid itself of most of its pains, useless expense, trouble and premature decay and death.

The unpleasant facts are established that ninety-five per cent. of all diseases rampant today are caused by wrong feeding and drugs. Most people go to greater expense and take more pains to make themselves ill than it could possibly cost to keep them in that perfect state of health they are entitled to enjoy.

Existing artificial life is the main cause of all existing misery. Where a thoroughly natural life is pursued, health asserts itself. The primary causes of almost all diseases are lowered vitality and accumulation of waste poison. Populace's faulty ascribes apparent or secondary causes as being the actual sources of diseases, whereas they are, in reality, Nature's effort to eliminate poison from the system.

A bruise, a boil, a dose of cold, hot, sour or sweet food, or a dose of microbes (scavengers), may be the means of starting poison elimination in acute forms of disease. Pure blood cannot be infected with microbes because there is nothing for them to live upon.

The most painful causes of death are purely "diseases of civilization," originating from disease-producing, palatable-tickling "sophisticated methods of cooking" which destroy the health-preserving action of our food. Every attempt to improve natural food by artificial means results in pain, disease and premature death. Today, it is civilization's duty to itself and its millions yet unborn, by the abundant means provided by Nature, to raise its own blood to a pure and healthy standard, and retain it there.

Nature has furnished ample variety for each season to delight the senses and prevent monotony. If common sense is allowed to become our new chef d'oeuvre, a happier, because healthier, world will thankfully rejoice with Charles Walter, 51 Brunswick Avenue, Toronto, Ontario, Canada.

WORLD HAPPENINGS BRIEFLY TOLD

CHOLERA INFANTUM A FATAL DISEASE OF CHILDREN

Cholera infantum, or summer complaint of children is one of the most dangerous bowel complaints during the summer months.

It begins with a profuse diarrhoea, the stomach becomes irritated, very often vomiting, the face becomes flushed, and the matter excreted from the stomach has a bilious appearance. The child is restless, the temperature is reduced to languor and prostration, and in a great many cases death ensues.

Mothers, if any of your children become sick with cholera infantum do not endanger their lives, perhaps their life, by experimenting with some new and untried remedy; get one that has stood the test of time, one that will quickly offset the vomiting, purging and the diarrhoea. This you will find in Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, a remedy that has been on the market for the past 78 years.

Mrs. W. A. Harvill, of Ellerslie Court, Halifax, N.S., writes: "Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry saved the lives of my children when all other remedies failed. It stopped the vomiting and terrible diarrhoea with which they were troubled. I always keep a bottle of it in hand in case of emergency."

"Dr. Fowler's is a bottle; put up only by The T. Milburn Co. Limited, Toronto, Ont."

Minard's Liniment for Dandruff

2,000,000 Cattle in North Alberta Cattle in North Alberta's livestock herds now number more than 2,000,000. This industry, and also the swine industry have increased amazingly in the northern part of the province in the last few years.

Reduced by Asthma. The constant strain of asthma brings the patient to a dreadful state of hopeless exhaustion. Early use should by all means be made of the famous Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy, which more than any other acts quickly and surely on the air passages and brings blessed help and comfort. No home where asthma is present in the least degree should be without this great remedy.

Machine For Armless Men

Invention of Edinburgh Gasfitter Does Marvelous Work

A machine for armless men—simple in design, and yet uncanny in its facility—was demonstrated at a British Red Cross display in the Royal Botanical Gardens.

With the aid of a pair of metal levers attached to a table and manipulated by the feet, William Witt, who lost both arms in an accident four years ago, performed a series of operations to show what the machine could do. These included taking soup, drinking tea, peeling an egg, lighting a cigarette, working a sewing machine, hammering in nails, playing draughts, writing, typewriting and replacing various implements from an overturned tool box. The utensils and tools used were ordinary ones, affixed to the levers by special attachments. The machine, the invention of W. J. Thompson, an Edinburgh gasfitter, seemed to be possessed of the acumen of a Robot.

Miller's Worm Powders, being in demand everywhere, can be got at any chemist's or drug shop, at very small cost. They are a reliable remedy for worm troubles and can be fully relied upon to expel worms from the system and abate the sufferings that worms cause. There are many mothers that rejoice that they found available so effective a remedy for the relief of their children.
